Honors Lecture - 14284 - UH 101 - 003

This course will provide students an opportunity to learn and practice the art and science of persuasion. Persuasive speeches can come in many forms, such as public speaking, project presentation, sales pitches, debates, and even job interviews. With this UH course, students aim to achieve the following goals: 1) exploring the other person's viewpoint, 2) explaining your point of view, and 3) creating resolutions.

Honors Professional Preparation Seminar - 14285 - UH 205 - 001

The core of professionalism and leadership lies within a person's self. It can be "seen" from all aspects: student/academic life, work life, and home life. In this course, students will be learning the arts of professionalism and leadership and how to incorporate those characteristics into their daily lives, now and in the future. Lee Cockerell's book "Creating Magic: 10 Strategies for a Life at Disney" (2009) will be used to guide students to engage change. Character strengths and values will be heightened by exploring ways to make greater progress on personal goals by investigating professional websites and blogs, participating in open discussions with peers, completing written assignments, and evaluating one's own professional commitments and leadership attitudes throughout the course.
