Congratulations to all of Jacksonville State University's Class of 2014. Of this graduating class, five graduated as Elite Honors Scholars. In addition to these students, Reginald Swanson graduated with Honors, having completed each of the requirements for the Honors Program. This group of students is one of the last with the privilege of graduating under the direction of Dr. Steven Whitton who founded the Honors Program. Good luck to all our graduates!

The Honors Program would like to thank Gregory Felch, an Elite Honors Graduate from the Class of 2014, for his donation to the Honors House. Gregory, an art major, donated two of his very beautiful pieces to be displayed in the Honors House. Thank you, Greg!

Honors Program teams up with Relay for Life

During the 2013-2014 year, members of the Honors Program devoted much time and energy to raise money towards their goal for Relay for Life. In total, $3,925.50 was raised. To wrap up the project, the Honors Program and all its members stood alongside members of the Calhoun County Relay for Life team for food, fun, and friendship as they all celebrated the annual contributions to end cancer in all its forms.

Third Annual Taizhou trade-off

This summer, members of the Honors Program got first chance at JSU's third annual exchange trip to China. Brianna Bell, Alison Cline, Latrice Green, Patrice Green, Nabila Haque, Lea Isbell, Thomas Jones, Gillian McCary, Kurt Nilsson, David Rickless, and Noah Trudeau all joined professors Thomas McCutcheon and Ellen Peck for a ten day excursion where they were enlightened about the culture, educational system, and many more aspects of this fascinating country.
